AUSTRIANS SINK ITALIAN STEAMERS

ANCONA SURVIVOR TELLS EXPERIENCE

Rome, Nov. 13.—Sinking of an Italian steamer with loss of life attending its destruction was reported here today while indignation at the Ancona tragedy was still at its height. The liner Firenze, it was semi-officially announced was sunk on November 9 by an Austrian submarine while bound from Genoa to Port Said.

Paris, Nov. 12. Dr. Cecile L. Greil, the American woman who was a passenger on the Italian liner Ancona, which was sunk in the Mediterranean by an Austrian submarine, saved herself by jumping from the deck into a boat, many feet below in the water.

Fifteen members of the Firenze crew and six passengers are reported missing in advices received at the ministry of marine. It is believed that all the twenty-one unaccounted for perished.

The Firenze was a twin screw steel steamer of 3,960 tons, built in 1912 and owned by the Societa Marittima Italiana. It usually carried about 100 passengers and a crew of 65 on its voyages from Genoa to Alexandria and Port Said. Its destruction, it was said at the ministry of marine, indicates that at least two Austrian submarines are engaged in sinking passenger-carrying ships in the Mediterranean. Italian officials consider it improbable that the vessel which sank the Ancona, off the Sardinia coast could have reached the route taken by the Firenze in time to sink that vessel.

On the trip in which the Firenze was sunk, however, it carried 32 passengers and a crew of 111 men. Twenty-seven passengers and 96 members of the crew were rescued. It is reported that the captain of the Firenze was given ten minutes in which to get his passengers and sailors into the small boats, and promptly on the expiration of that time the steamer was sunk.

According to Dr. Greil's story, the torpedo which finally settled the Ancona was not fired until the ship had been riddled with shells.

The name of Giuseppe Torrisi, a naturalized American citizen was added today to the list of passengers lost when the Ancona was sunk. The commissioner of emigration announced yesterday that Torrisi had been saved and taken to Malta, but a dispatch received from Malta today stated that there were no Americans among the survivors there.

"I asked the ship's doctor what was happening, but he did not know," Dr. Greil said. "I was in the dining room of the first class passengers, chatting with friends when we heard the report of a cannon. Instantly there was great excitement on deck. Officers were shouting orders and men and women were rushing from one side to the other."

Paris, Nov. 13.—Without a dissenting vote the chamber of deputies today passed a bill enabling the French government to contract a loan of 200,000,000 francs at 5 per cent. The bill was introduced by M. Ribot, the minister of finance, issued the following appeal: "It is the duty of every French citizen, from the humblest worker to the most powerful capitalist to help make the loan a success so that we can continue the war."

"I went to my cabin to get some papers and there found my maid hysterical from fear. She dropped to her knees begging me to save her. I started to reassure her but our conversation was interrupted by a shell which entered through the porthole, killing the girl instantly. After putting on my hat and coat and getting a few papers together in a valise, I went on deck and strapped a life belt about me."

London, Nov. 13.—The British submarine E-20, which penetrated the Dardanelles and sank many Turkish ships in the Sea of Marmora, was shipped up for lost today. The admiralty issued the following statement: "It is feared that the submarine E-20 has been lost in the Sea of Marmora. Reports from enemy sources say that three officers and six members of the crew are prisoners."

"May I get into that boat?" "He said that I might and at the same time grasped a rope hanging down the side of the ship to prevent the boat from moving away."

Winnington, Del., Nov. 13.—Within twelve hours after it was reported that the company had secured an order for 72,000,000 pounds of powder for the allies, an explosion blew up a mill of the Dupont Powder Company at Hagley, near here. The mill contained 300 pounds of powder. No one was injured in the explosion which occurred early today. The cause is unknown.

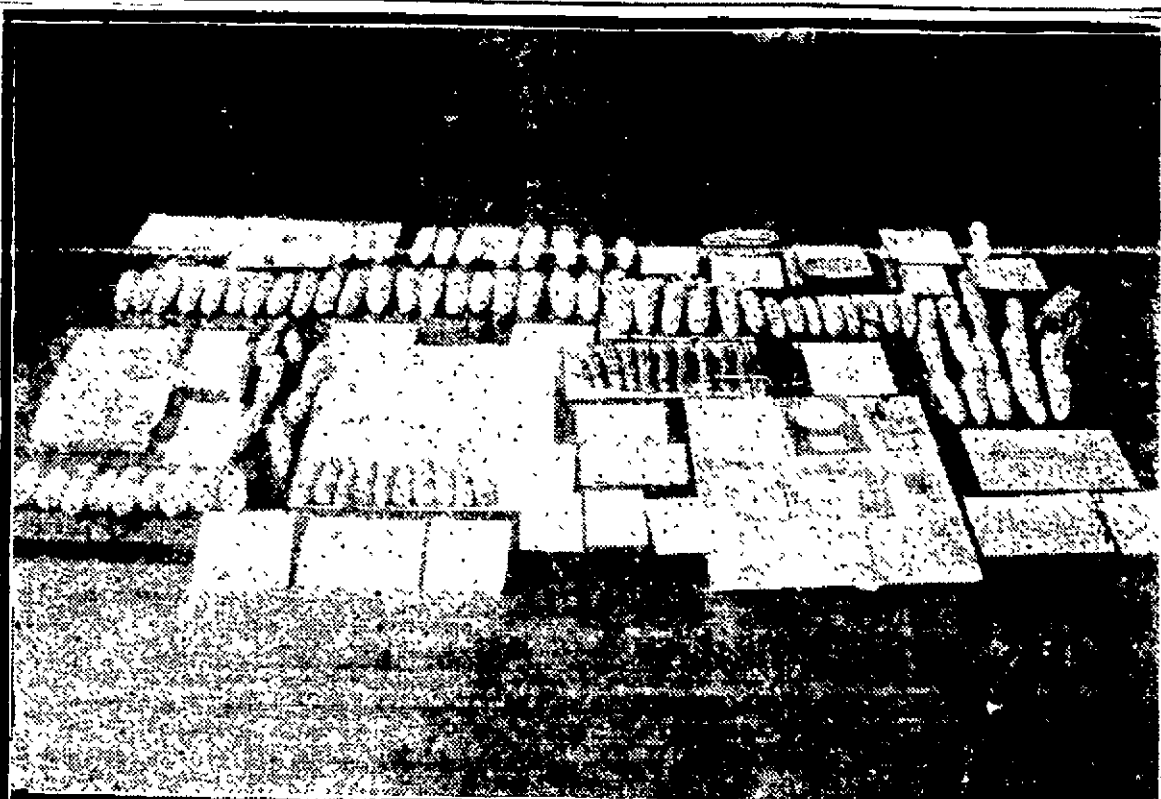

"The Ancona was a staunch ship and resisted the bombardment well. Many of the shells struck her above the water line and merely splintered the sides."

London, Nov. 13.—The British steamer Den of Crombie, 4,949 tons, was sunk by a submarine near the Mediterranean. The vessel sailed from Rangoon for Havana on September 29. The Den of Crombie was built in 1907 and was owned by the Barrie Steamship Co. Ltd.

"We rowed away from the ship and came upon a heavily loaded lifeboat which was leaking. We took nine women and children into our boat and took the other boat in tow."

London, Nov. 13.—The British steamer Den of Crombie, 4,949 tons, was sunk by a submarine near the Mediterranean. The vessel sailed from Rangoon for Havana on September 29. The Den of Crombie was built in 1907 and was owned by the Barrie Steamship Co. Ltd.

"We were taken on board and the Pluton then searched the water while in hope of finding more survivors."

REGAIN COMMERCE FOR EMPIRE STATE

The state of New York has expended $101,000,000 in enlarging its canals, principally the Erie connecting the Great Lakes and the Hudson river. The work is not completed and the people have just authorized an additional expenditure of $27,000,000 to carry the improvement through. Besides this, the state is spending almost twenty million dollars in the construction of terminals in towns along the canals and upper Hudson and in New York city. The importance and necessity of opening the enlarged Erie canal at the earliest possible date are emphasized by the statement that as a result of Canada's progressive waterway policy the wheat export trade from the Great Lakes by way of Montreal has reached 46,000,000 bushels annually, as against 64,000,000 bushels for New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore combined in shipments from Duluth to Montreal. The Welland canal and the canalized St. Lawrence river are used and the charge for grain is 5 cents a bushel, which is the prevailing figure. It is said, for transporting grain from Buffalo by rail or the old Erie canal to the port of New York. Mortimer G. Barnes, an engineer and waterway expert, figures that on export grain leaving Buffalo through the new barge canal there will be a saving of $0.02 1/2 cents a bushel compared with the charge by the Montreal route. If this estimate is correct, the supremacy of the metropolis as an exporting point will be restored, and incidentally the towns along the Hudson will reap benefits more or less direct.

PLOTTING CONSULS TO BE PUNISHED

Washington, Nov. 13.—Cancellation of the exequatur of every consular official implicated in the plots against the neutrality of the United States will likely be the first result of the renewed nationwide investigation now in progress. It is understood that President Wilson favors such an action and that it will be taken should the proofs now being sought by the agents of the justice department and the secret service be as conclusive as the reports now available indicate.

OFFICER EXPECTED FOR WILSON SOON

Immediately following the arrest of Frederick W. Wilson at a rooming house in Wall street late Tuesday afternoon on a charge of having forged a check for $200 in Jacksonville, Fla., word was telegraphed by the shrewdly authorities to the southern city, and it is expected that an officer will arrive in Kingston within a day or so to take the prisoner back. Extrajudicial papers issued by the governor of Florida will have to be endorsed by Gov. Whitman in Albany before Sheriff South will turn Wilson over to the southern authorities.

KAISER APPEALS TO POPE FOR PEACE

Paris, Nov. 13.—Emperor William has appealed personally to Pope Benedict XV. to try to restore peace in Europe, according to the newspaper Echo de Belge. This newspaper contains the following special article today upon the subject:

"Germany earnestly desires peace. I learn on good authority that the kaiser has written the pope entreating him to intercede with the allies for a compromise treaty. The Holy Father responded that he was at the disposal of the emperor and ready at all times to seize the most favorable opportunity to attempt to end the war. It was suggested, however, that it would be best for Germany to evacuate Belgium before undertaking either directly or indirectly to treat with the allies. An extract from the pope's letter is said to have been read in all the Roman Catholic Churches in Belgium by Cardinal Mercier of Malines."

ENGAGE IN MUSIC AS A PROFESSION

Among those who have gone out from the Kingston Conservatory of Music to become members of orchestras, or who have secured other professional positions are the following: Miss Swartz, with Ladies' Orchestra of Portland, Ore.; Virgil Winchell, with the orchestra at John Goodman, with the Sells-Howards; Howard Clapp, with the Washington Marine Band; Harry Matthews and Lester Phillips, playing in New York city. Many of the string players in the Kingston Symphony Orchestra, violinists, violoncellos and cellists, have been and are students of the conservatory. Jacob Mollott, head of the violin department and solo cellist of the Kingston Symphony Society, has been secured by the Newburgh Symphony Orchestra for its 1915-16 season. One of the features of the string department of the conservatory, is the ensemble violin class. The largest class has some eighteen players. In addition there are two violin quartets.

CANDY STORES WANT A MONOPOLY

Seeking For Some Legislator to Introduce a Bill Prohibiting Drug and Department Stores Selling Candy.

Albany, Nov. 13.—Retail candy dealers are searching for some legislator to introduce a bill in their interests, but thus far no law-maker appears inclined to present the measure in that its passage would very likely cause a considerable commotion. The bill in question would restrict department stores and druggists from handling candy.

"The fact that drug stores and department stores sell candy is one of the big features of a detrimental nature which retail handlers of candy are now facing. Some of these stores handle more candy than they do drugs and more soda water than either," said a prominent retail candy man. "There should be a law restricting a merchant to his trade. A druggist has a license to deal in drugs; candy men have no such license so you see, the druggist has an advantage."

There appears to be some doubt as to whether the passage of a law restricting the sale of goods would be constitutional. Salesmanship has its limitations so long as the commodity handled is as it is represented and it is not contrary to statute or ordinance to deal in it. The encroachment of the big department stores and the drug stores has, however, fallen with a heavy hand upon the retail candy merchants who claim that the candy business is considerably less profitable than before the drug and department stores took up candy as a side line.

Twice a year the candy man is supposed to reap a harvest; at Easter and during the Christmas holidays. He increases his stock in preparation for this unusual trade but the drug stores do likewise. It is claimed, resulting frequently in a loss for the candy retailer.

Viewing the situation from the standpoint of the wholesale candy dealer, it can readily be seen that if an attempt were made to restrict their sales by prohibiting by law the sale of candy by druggists or department stores, that it would be met with strenuous objection. This would no doubt be the case with the department store men and the druggists as well. It would therefore seem that the retail candy man will have a difficult task in having his proposed bill enacted into law.

When an assemblyman was requested to introduce the bill under discussion he replied that were he to take such a step the residents of all of the rural general stores in the state would very likely protest since there are a great many villages where candy is not sold except at the general store in that the hamlets are too small to support a full fledged candy establishment.

Notwithstanding the apparent difficulty in having a candy selling restriction bill introduced and passed, an effort is to be made when the legislators return to Albany to do just that thing. Prominent men in the retail candy business are endeavoring to make plainly apparent the extent of their losses since the practice of department stores and druggists to deal in candy has grown to menacing proportions.

Cigar dealers who handle goods retail may be said to have a more logical reason to complain than have the retail candy men, for there is scarcely a place of a public nature where things are sold, with the exception of the metropolitan department stores, where cigars and tobacco are not on sale from the so-called cafe to the drug store and news room.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 13.—There was a strong tone to the stock market at the opening this morning and a majority of the issues made gains ranging from fractions to more than a point. The copper issues were again prominent, American Smelting rising 3/4 to 100 1/2, Guggenheim 3/4 to 74 1/2 and Anaconda 1/2 to 87 1/2. Steel common was in good demand, selling at 87 1/2, a gain of 1/2. A higher range was established in nearly all the minor industrials. American moved up 3/4 to 63 1/2. The war order stocks were in brisk demand, Baldwin advancing two points to 122 1/2, Studebaker 2 1/2 to 159 1/2 and Crude Steel 2 points to 78. Lackawanna Steel moved up a point to 77 1/2. American Ice was unusually active, advancing 3/4 to 21 1/2. The railway issues were generally firm, with small fractional gains. Distillers securities opened a point higher at 48 1/2, and many other specialties made substantial improvements.

In the last hour the market was almost wholly one of the war order stocks. Maxwell Motors advanced to 81, a gain of 7 1/2 points for the day. Butte and Superior rose to 73 1/2, a gain in all of 4 1/2 points. Lackawanna Steel sold at 82, against 76 1/2 at the close yesterday. There was vigorous buying of Studebaker, which rose to 153 1/2, a gain of 5 1/2 points. In the last few minutes movements were mixed. Utah Copper made a fractional gain, while others yielded slightly. The final tone was firm.—Governments unchanged; other bonds strong.

Beer Health Values

WE are strong and physically capable in degree as our food digests. The old idea of regarding beer solely as a means to sociability is fast passing out. Today, with the strongest endorsement in their favor from the lips and writings of men who study the body and its requirements, PURE BEERS such as our matchless have come to be recognized as important factors in establishing health through arousing digestive action.

To get ALL the good in our food is to assure full strength and vigor, and it is here that pure beer may become a true benefactor.

COCHRANE FOR APPELLATE COURT

Two changes in the personnel of the appellate division of the supreme court for the third department have been announced by Governor Whitman.

The governor has revoked the designation of Justice Walter Lloyd Smith as presiding judge of the court and has designated him as an associate judge of the Appellate Division of the First Department, comprising Manhattan and the Bronx.

In Judge Smith's place, the governor has designated Associate Judge John M. Kellogg of Ogdensburg as presiding judge of the court for the Third Department, and has designated Justice Aaron V. S. Cochrane of Hudson to fill the vacancy thus caused. Judge Kellogg is at present a member of the Appellate Division in this department.

Judge Smith fills the vacancy in the First Department caused by the recent voluntary retirement of Justice Henry D. Hotchkiss.

Judge Cochrane's elevation to the Appellate Division leaves the Third Judicial District with only three trial judges for the circuit work. Judge Hasbrouck of this city and Judges Ruddle and Chester of Albany. Judge Cochrane has previously served on the Appellate Division for five years, at the end of which time he returned to trial work. His popularity on the trial bench has been evidenced by the large number of cases tried before him in each of the seven counties of the district and his elevation to the appellate division will be regarded generally by his associates on the trial bench and the members of the bar. His six weeks' term in this city last winter, following a two weeks' term, will long be remembered by the lawyers here. That Ulster county has a much larger amount of litigation than is generally supposed is shown by the amount of work done in May term over which Judge Chester presided, and the four weeks' term just closed by Judge Hasbrouck. The December term, over which Judge Ruddle will preside, will probably find another large lot of cases ready for trial.

The condition here is not comparable, however, to the condition in the First Department. In making application to Governor Whitman for the assignment of an up-state justice to the Appellate Division of the First Department, Presiding Judge Ingraham stated that during the past two years there have been each month several of the trial terms without a justice of the supreme court to hold them so that they had to be adjourned. On October 1 last, the number of cases undisposed of in the First Department was 9,121.

BUTTERFLY BALL IN ARMORY GARDEN

If the plans of the Ulster County Garden Club are worked out successfully, the interior of the big state armory will resemble on December 6 a beautiful garden. Flowers will grow from boxes and balconies, hollyhocks will spring from the wooden floors and dogwoods will blossom on the brick walls. Color and bloom will be everywhere and hundreds of gay butterflies will hover over the scene. It will be a fitting setting for one of the most attractive entertainments ever offered to a Kingston public.

To make all these floral decorations will require many helping hands. All the members of the Garden Club are making paper flowers, but such a quantity is needed that help will be gladly received. Martin Cantine of Saugerties has generously donated the paper for the blossoms and the services of any woman who understands making flowers, who will volunteer to make some, will be gratefully accepted.

Butterflies are wanted from every friend of the Kingston City Hospital. They may be easily made of paper with scissors and a bit of cord or of tulle with hat wire, thread and needle. Small groups of women together in an afternoon can make ten or twelve butterflies, spend a pleasant social hour and feel that they have done something to help on the new hospital. Card clubs and other small organizations are asked to volunteer an afternoon or two for this work and pledge themselves to a specified number.

The making of the butterflies is in charge of the Monday Afternoon sewing club. Patterns and directions may be obtained of Mrs. G. Wallace Codwise, 97 St. James street and Miss Doris Hasbrouck, 18 Livingston street.

It will be remembered that the crowd at the May ball two years ago was so large that many were disappointed in not getting seats for the entertainment. The performance at the Butterfly Ball is of such a character that it will be possible to place several hundred chairs on the armory floor to be occupied during the performance and afterward removed for the general dancing. In this way the seating capacity of the drill hall will be greatly augmented and unless there is an unprecedented attendance, seats will be found for all to witness the beautiful and artistic performance which opens the ball.

Have your tires been 99% satisfactory during the past two years?

If in 1914 and 1915 you have used ten tires and one has "gone bad," you have only been 90% satisfied. If two have "gone bad," your score is reduced to 80%.

In 1914 and 1915, out of every million Diamond Squeegies Tread Tires, 990,000, or 99% have made good.

Was your percentage that high?

If nine friends and yourself had between you, in 1914 and 1915, bought 100 Diamond Squeegies for your cars, but one tire out of the whole lot would have required adjusting.

If it takes you 15 years to use up 100 tires yourself, in all those years only one Diamond Squeegie will cause you any trouble.

These are facts based on the law of averages—upon which billions are invested in the life insurance business.

BUSINESS MADE BY ADVERTISING

One of This City's Successful Business Men Tells How Advertising Backed by the Goods, Made His Business Grow.

The activity of the progressive merchant in the direction of newspaper advertising is the best evidence of the value of publicity. Many advertisers, however, becoming confused by the glare of big announcements of other business men, plunge into vast expenditures only to find out too late that they have met the same fate as the moth in the flame, and for exactly the same reason—lack of judgment. The trick of keeping down publicity bills, and at the same time getting profitable results, is demonstrated in a convincing manner by the great success which has been won by Jacob A. Lay for his meat market on Hasbrouck avenue.

When Mr. Lay began business eleven years ago his production of bologna amounted to about 150 pounds a week during the first 12 months. The second year, after he had begun advertising in The Freeman, his output increased to over 500 pounds per week in the first month and from that time there was a steady increase of his products until he was unable to supply the demand with the equipment of his plant. He saw a bright future before him and proceeded to install the latest and best electric machinery procurable. Still his business grew and in the third year of his venture his output increased to more than one thousand pounds per day. He was not only successful in the bologna branch of his market, but all kinds of roasts, steaks and chops trebled themselves in sales.

Since then he has installed a refrigeration plant, and, being very progressive in character, Mr. Lay has kept his market abreast of the times by the purchase and installation of every new appliance that would improve his market and make it more helpful to the public. This is not intended as a "business puff." The idea is to prove that advertising pays whenever it is handled with judgment and skill. Mr. Lay's level-headedness in rejecting "advertising pyrotechnics" and steadily adhering to truth in his announcements are two reasons for his unprecedented success. For ten years his advertisements have appeared regularly every Friday in The Freeman until today "Lay's ad" has become the housewife's guide to Saturday shopping.

Mr. Lay is a member of the Benevolent Order of Elks, the United Commercial Travelers' Association and the Knights of Columbus. He is also one of Kingston's police commissioners.

"As I see it," says Mr. Lay, "the prime necessity to successful merchandising, besides advertising, is that which yields the highest degree of satisfaction to the customer—value, combined with attentiveness, promptness and reliability."

What Made Her Pause.
Mrs. Boshysell heard that her ebullient cook, the pride and joy of the kitchen, was about to take another plunge into the matrimonial sea. So she decided to ascertain the truth of the report. "Mirandy," she said, "I hear it rumored that you are going to be married again, this time to Joe." "No, I ain't gwine git married ac'in. Miss Lucy," replied Mirandy, "I kinda like Joe, but I ain't gwine marry him." "What's the trouble?" asked Mrs. Boshysell. "Ain't no trouble, Miss Lucy," said Mirandy, "but yo' see I done been married three times already, an', to tell yo' de truth, I'm cittin' mighty tired payin' out good money to dem undutakin's."

Felt Like One of Them.
"Tutler day," related old Dad Bing, the cattle baron, who is temporarily in our midst. "I was rambling along in a street car when a batch of young fellows got aboard. I judged they were college students by their funny clothes and queer shaped heads. The car was pretty full, and they pushed and snorted back and forth in the aisle, tramping on people's feet and committing similar frivolities that a-way. Bimeby they all rared back and fetched home a long yell. Then the nearest one to me took a look at me and says: 'Well, my rural friend, don't you like it?'"

"Shore, I like it," says I. "I'm half wilded myself."—Exchange.

FLAG PRESENTED TO CLINTON CHAPTER

Clinton Chapter, No. 445, Order of the Eastern Star, held an inspiring and pleasing public meeting at Masonic Hall Friday evening, when the officers of 1915 presented the chapter with a very handsome American flag.

The donors were worthy matron, Mrs. Mary Myer; worthy patron, Frank L. Norton; associate matron, Miss Ethel M. Van Aken; treasurer, Miss Charlotte M. Freer; secretary, Miss M. Helen Freer; conductress, Mrs. Flora L. Ostrander; associate conductress, Miss Minnie E. Riseley; chaplain, Mrs. Mary C. G. Hill; marshal, Miss Mary C. Hume; organist, Mrs. Daisy E. Clinton; historian, Mrs. Katherine J. E. Burr; warder, Mrs. Grace M. Ruge; Adah, Mrs. Eleanor C. Styles; Esther, Mrs. Ida K. West; Martha, Miss Helen M. Rose; Electa, Mrs. Jane M. Maben; sentinel, John Hein, Jr.

At the close of the impressive opening ritual, the entire assembly rose and sang, "America." Samuel Scudder accompanying at the organ. This was followed by the singing of "Star Spangled Banner," and each verse was beautifully illustrated by the Misses Isabelle Pitts, Violet Reynolds, Jennie Hogebloom, Hazel Toole and Ethel Rose, who wore simple white gowns over which were artistically draped large American flags. Their interpretative posing was exceedingly graceful and inspiring.

The handsome gift flag, surmounted by its glittering golden star, was then brought forth by marshal, Miss Mary Hume, and placed in its stand.

Miss Grace V. Merritt, past matron, in behalf of the 1915 officers, then presented the flag. Her address, given with real oratorical ability, was exceptionally pertinent and worthy of consideration at this time, and her fervid apostrophizing of the Stars and Stripes was an indication of the patriotic attitude of our women today. The past history of our flag, and what it stood for was admirably given. The brave men who died that this country might live, did not die in vain. The "Divine power" that made for us a garden of swords, sowing the land broadcast with sorrow, has reaped for us and for the ages, a nation of true greatness, of religious tolerance, of patriotism and of civilization. Under the protecting folds of the Stars and Stripes, amid all the terrific strife and turmoil across the seas, we are today at peace with the world. In closing, Miss Merritt said, "In the ranks of our country are to be found many who gave their all—life, fortune, home and loved ones—a willing sacrifice upon the altar of country. What is more appropriate, then, and in honor of our soldiers as well as in honor of our beloved country, than to have the Stars and Stripes wave in the East of this Chapter room, that we may keep the fires of patriotism alight upon our altar. And so it is with a very deep feeling that I have the pleasure, tonight, in behalf of the officers of 1915, to present this flag to the Clinton Chapter with the hope that it may transmit to those who come to our midst, unsullied and undiminished, that true spirit of patriotism and love that breathes from that Holy Book upon the altar, which is our heritage to enjoy and our duty to bequeath to others. O! folds of white and scarlet! O! blue fields with your silver stars! May fond eyes welcome you, willing feet follow you, strong hands defend you, warm hearts cheer you and dying lips give you their blessing! Ours by inheritance, ours by allegiance, ours by affection, long may you float on the free wind of Heaven, the emblem of Liberty, the hope of the world!"

The flag was received for the chapter by Past Patron Samuel D. Scudder, who was most felicitous in his remarks. Giving first a "credo" that bespoke a devout and intelligent belief in our country, its institutions and its flag, Mr. Scudder then emphasized the significance of the flag as applied to the fraternal life. He considered the Stars and Stripes as the outward and visible sign of the inward spirit of the nation, and also as standing for fraternity, that equality in a nation that makes for oneness. His excellent address was closed as follows: "We are one great family, this flag uniting us all. I am devoutly thankful that this flag floats over a united nation, east, west, north and south. Yes, it floats over a land of the free and the brave. Oh, glorious flag, rich in tradition, made sacred by our fathers, long may it wave with ever increasing splendor! Next to the Holy Bible, this flag was revered by our fathers and mothers as sacred, and it is ours too, ours to cherish and insure the loftiest and noblest of all. It has witnessed bloody battles, fought for freedom, union and humanity, and today there is only one flag, your flag, my flag! It is incumbent upon you and me to keep it unsullied and untarnished, a rich heritage for remotest posterity."

The addresses were followed by some admirable musical selections, Miss Katherine Van Buren, violin, member of the Symphony Orchestra, playing a beautiful broad and free rendition of Gounod's Adoration, and a charming "Lullaby Song" as an encore. She was accompanied by Miss Helen Turner, Mrs. Maben then gave a fine vocal solo, "In the Garden of My Heart," and to the enthusiastic applause responded with a clever encore, "Till for Tat." See

THE FREEMAN

LIFE IN BELGIUM UNDER GERMANS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London Nov. 13.—The following account of conditions in Belgium is from the pen of an American, who has arrived in London after a year's stay in the Belgian Capital:

"Belgium today is learning to speak English. Everywhere you go, you can see the old and young usually carrying notebooks, studying in the streets and trams, in the cafes, restaurants, and in the homes, all talking English, using English expressions and words on all possible occasions.

"Belgium is confident. You have only to look at their faces to see it, and if you talk with them, they say, 'Just wait.' The day of deliverance is coming, it may be this summer or next summer, but never? Vous etes fous!

"From the German military standpoint, Belgium is organized into three districts, the first, the Operationsgebiet or the zone of operations, which extends some fifteen to twenty miles behind the actual line of fighting; the second, the Etappen zone, which is an intermediary zone where all the supplies for the front are collected and distributed; and the third, the Occupationsgebiet or the occupied territory organized with both military and civil governments. No person can go from one to the other except on special permission, and then only by train, which includes as one of its comforts a thorough searching.

"No person can leave the town in which he lives, except by train or on foot. Those who wish to ride in automobiles must pay twenty marks a week or more. In the fortified cities of Liege, Namur, and Antwerp, you must be in your houses at nine o'clock in the evening.

"Naturally no Belgian can go to Holland except by stealth, and I have good reasons to believe that some sixty thousand have passed the frontier since the first of the year. Sometimes this necessitates the killing of one or two sentinels.

"Above all it is strictly forbidden to sing or play the Brabancon, the Marseillaise, and Tipperary, as a result of which, nearly every Belgian can sing Tipperary and does so very often. On the Boulevard Anspach in Brussels one day four little boys were marching towards the Bourse singing at the top of their lungs the Brabancon. It was not long before some German soldiers chased them, catching one, who, as he marched away to the Kommandatur, cried out to his friends: 'Run and tell mama that I am a prisoner of war.' The young Belgians all wear caps modeled on the soldier's rest caps and are very independent.

"The German government of Belgium has expressed its desire that all Belgians should return to their work, but if it be work that can profit the Germans, they find something else to do. Then, besides, every piece of machinery that can be used in Germany has been stolen long since.

"It is easy to say, 'Go to work,' but it is another thing to do it. I do which is not of direct benefit to the German military authorities. In Charleroi there were about fifty locomotives which had been damaged more or less. The Germans offered the work of repair with fair pay to the Belgian workmen, but they absolutely refused, as the locomotives could be used in sending supplies and troops to the front. It was nearly a month later when after failing to persuade the Belgians to work the Germans were compelled to bring workmen from their shops in Germany.

"I have given you some idea of the general relations between the Germans and the Belgians. As for personal relations, there is none.

"During the week before I left Brussels, I was a spectator of an incident which perhaps shows the distance between the two better than I can explain. I was standing on the platform of a train coming up from town. It was crowded with both German and Belgians. A German sub-officer took a cigarette from his case, and, having no match, asked the man standing beside him for a light. The Belgian had nothing to do but offer the German his lighted cigarette. When the German went to return the cigarette, the Belgian very politely informed the German that he did not care to smoke any more. The German could do nothing, although he felt the insultation. He left the train immediately.

"For our real news we have had to depend upon the Dutch papers and above all the London and Paris journals which were smuggled in from time to time. The German authorities have done all they could to stop these papers coming in, even making it extremely punishable, but as fast as they would stop up one channel of the supply another would be found. We were never without an English paper for more than two weeks since the first of September of last year.

"On account of the numerous secret police who have been trying to detect those selling and buying these papers I have never been able to find out the different ways in which these papers were brought in, but I have no doubt that they passed through as many as ten or fifteen hands before they reached Brussels. As a result of this secrecy, little reading clubs have been created all over Belgium, together with regular routes of delivery. A certain number of people band together, as the price, which is for our up to date 1915-1916 large usually about 80 cents a copy is too dear for anyone, but a millionaire, then after everyone in the club has read it, it is translated into French, and sometimes Flemish, typewritten sheets being distributed, sometimes given free or for a few centimes.

"The commission for relief of Belgium has, no doubt, saved a nation from starvation, and under the difficult circumstances, have done a wonderful work. The Belgians know and really appreciate the help, even if the Germans have tried to claim the credit by publishing pictures of the commission work and labeling them as some of the fine work Germany has done in Belgium.

"Another report that they liked to spread among the Belgians was that the Americans were making fortunes out of relief work."

THE W. G. BROWNE MFG. CO.,

GYMN WORK OFFERED TO POLICE

The board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. held a regular monthly meeting at the association on Friday evening at which time a resolution was passed offering the members of the local police force what will be known as a special gymnasium privilege membership at the rate of $5 a year, providing that at least ten policemen accept the offer. In the associations in the west the Y. M. C. A. is co-operating with the police departments in order that the men may receive athletic training and become better equipped for their police work. If the local police force take up the offer of the association it will mean that the men will have the use of the gymnasium two days in each week at a time that will best suit their convenience and a regular policemen's gymnasium class will be organized. The board also appointed a special committee with power to investigate the matter of securing a moving picture machine and equipment for use in the local association. Associations all over the country are considering the installing of a moving picture machine as an entertainment and educational feature of association work, and a national committee of general secretaries have completed plans whereby films specially adapted for Y. M. C. A. work are secured. The board also transacted considerable routine business before adjourning.

Charm Cures.

Relief in charm cures is not quite extinct even today. Only a short while ago a child in East Anglia went to a chemist with a request from her mother for a spider in a nutshell to hang round baby's neck to cure his whooping cough. In the west country some still pin faith in the cure of whooping cough by administering cooked dormouse or by pinching a hair from the sick child's neck, hiding it in a piece of meat and giving it to a dog. No child will ever have the mumps, others affirm, if it has ridden on the back of a hen!—London Telegraph.

Friday Weddings.

Friday is a day of which about to wed couples are extremely nervous. It is a matter of record in most cities that fewer brides are lashed on that day than on the other five of the working week. In the divorce court no such hesitancy is manifest.

MOVIE PLAY TO BE MADE IN ROSENDALE

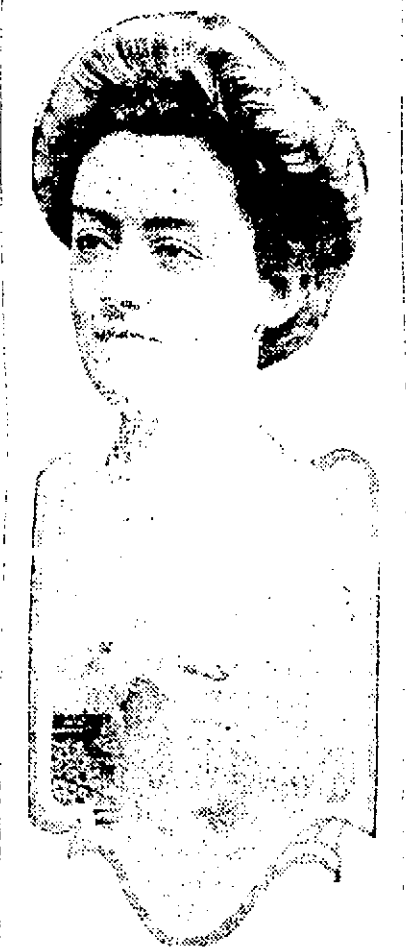

Rosendale and Whiteport and their vicinity will become the scene of "Autumn," a five-act moving picture drama which will be staged in the open air in that section for the next two weeks by the Universal Moving Picture Company, whose company of seventeen actors and actresses arrived at The Staynes Hotel in this city on Friday.

"Autumn" will cover more than five thousand feet of film and will be one of the most stupendous productions staged by the Universal Company. The picture will be made under the direction of G. A. C. Linds, who is recognized as one of the best feature producers in American.

The star parts will be played by Miss Violet Mercer, Lieutenant Percy Richards and Paul Pinner, all of whom are well known in the motion picture world for their clever acting and popularity with the "movie" public. Miss Mercer has been one of the stars of the Universal Company for some time and created a sensation by her wonderful acting in "Thou Shalt Not Lie." Prior to her appearance in "Autumn," she had gained an enviable reputation on the legitimate stage, where she began her career when fourteen years old. Lieutenant Richards is a former officer of the Swedish army and is a singer of no mean ability in addition to his other accomplishments, having appeared in grand opera in Berlin, Milan and other European cities, and having won renown in American also. Paul Pinner became famous by his acting in "The Perils of Pauline," in which he played before becoming connected with the Universal. All the other members of the cast are experienced and the play will be a strong one.

"Autumn" will deal with a mining town in Saskatchewan and the vicinity of Rosendale and Whiteport was selected for staging it for the camera because of the general resemblance of the section to the Canadian mill town.

The houses which will be used in the production arrived today and the staging of the play was begun this morning.

HIS HOSPITAL VISIT

The Stranger Who Inspected the Federal Quarters.

HE CHEERED A FEW PATIENTS

But the Secret of the Unknown Doctor's Influence Did Not Become Apparent Until the Next Day and After He Had Taken His Departure.

It was in the spring of 1912, when Stonewall Jackson, marching down the Shenandoah valley, had won a brilliant victory over General Banks, when he drove north until the friendly Potomac interposed its screen and he found safety and cure for his sick and wounded in the hospitals of Frederick.

A new nurse had been assigned to one of the hospitals the day before the battle a Massachusetts woman named Charlotte McKay, widowed and made childless within a single year. The patients she had under her care were mostly Federal soldiers, but there was a good sprinkling of wounded Confederates who were prisoners of war.

One day, just after dinner time, the chief surgeon entered Mrs. McKay's ward, accompanied by a stranger. The man had the appearance of a student. His head was bent and his brows were drawn together, with two deep lines between them, as if he had spent long, thoughtless hours at his desk, and his eyes, the color of blue steel, swept the ward with a keen glance that seemed to take in everything. His grizzled beard showed that he was no longer young, but his step and bearing were classic and vigorous.

"Dr. Janeway is from Louisiana," explained the chief as he introduced the stranger. "He had to abandon a large plant operation there when the war broke out because of his loyalty. He was a surgeon in the Civilian war and so is interested in seeing how we do things here."

The stranger glanced gently at the nurses and the surgeon, discussed their operating facilities, compared them with those of the Union, questioned them about the rationing of the prisoners and accepted a steaming cup of hot soup from the nurse.

The prisoners were watching and listening to all that passed, in strong contrast to the sullen indifference they had shown before. One young Virginian, tall and muscular, looked as if he were about to spring from his cot.

"That boy looks like he came from near my place," observed the southern Unionist. "May I speak to him?"

"Yes, doctor; you may talk to any of them."

With a curiously quick and noiseless step the visitor reached the bed and conversed for a moment in tones that were inaudible to all but the young soldier. He returned in a moment.

"I was mistaken. A chance resemblance deceived me. The man says he is tendering for a drink," nurse. "I told him I would ask you for it."

The wounded man drank the water, and then the two surgeons went on to another ward and presently left the building. Mounting his horse, Dr. Janeway had a cordial goodbye to the chief, bowed with deep respect to the two women and rode slowly out of the hospital grounds.

The prisoners were in better spirits the next morning. A laugh passed from time to time. It was almost as if some excellent joke unknown to their attendants had raised their courage.

"Did you know the gentleman who was here yesterday?" Mrs. McKay asked the boy soldier. The lad grinned up at her and replied:

"Yes, ma'am."

"You did? Who was he?"

"He was Stonewall Jackson, ma'am."

"The worse name, the he said."

"You're making fun of me, Pryor. General Jackson here in the midst of our armies?"

"It wouldn't be the first time," retorted the boy, as told by her unbelieved. "More than once, when he hadn't just the scout he wanted at hand, he has gone on his own errands."

"But what if he should be recognized?"

"Who's to recognize him? None of your folks, for those who would know him are fighting, not musing the sick. And none of ours, for they wouldn't tell if they saw him. Reason he spoke to me yesterday was 'cause I was showing too much interest. The one of his 'foot cavalry,' ma'am. He wanted to know just how we were being treated, and so he came to see."

"We try to do the best we can for you, Pryor."

"Yes, ma'am. I told him so. We've been treated a heap better than we expected to be. But it's tough to be a prisoner, you know. And that was Stonewall Jackson." Youth's companion.

Nothing Gratis.

"You can't get something for nothing in this life."

"That's right," retorted the gloomy citizen. "If I want even a few kind words about my disposition and some hope of future success I've got to go to a fortune teller and pay for them."—Washington Star.

Plenty on Hand.

"Have you ever wondered about your husband's past?"

"I have, no. I have only I can do in taking care of his present and worrying about his future." Boston Herald.

PENETRATES ISLAND WILDS AND FINDS SAVAGES ORIGINATE "DOG" FAD.

(Mrs. P. H. Woods.)

San Francisco, Nov. 12.—The dog fashion originated among the savage Negritos of the Philippine Islands, according to Mrs. P. Woods, wife of a U. S. navy officer stationed at Cavite, Philippine Islands. Mrs. Woods, her husband and a body guard of soldiers recently spent more than a month among these half-naked natives, studying their customs.

"The Negritos carry the cutest little dogs with them wherever they go," said Mrs. Woods upon her return to her home here. "Men and women both carry the dogs and the habit is just the same as the one which holds the society women of this country. The only difference is in the appearance of the people and the dogs."

Putting It Up to Father.

After several unsuccessful attempts to draw her husband into conversation at the restaurant, the wife discovered the cause of his abstraction to be a beautiful girl dressed in black and seated at a nearby table.

"An attractive widow," observed the wife coolly.

"Yes, indeed, a very attractive widow," agreed the husband enthusiastically.

"I wish I were one,"—Ladies' Home Journal.

Successful Test.

"When Josh got home from his education," said Farmer Cornstossel, "he started right in instructin' me about agriculture. So I didn't lose no time to try him out."

"What did you do?"

"Sent him out to round up a swarm o' bees."

"Was the experiment successful?"

"Some. It didn't hurt the bees none, an' kep' Josh from gettin' in the way for 'most two weeks."—Washington Star.

BANISH THE GLOOM.

A man is pleased, he does not know why, with the cheerfulness of a companion. It is like sudden sunshine that awakens a secret delight in the mind without its attending to it. The heart rejoices of its own accord and naturally turns into friendship toward the person who so kindly affects it.—Addison.

USING TRENCH PERISCOPE.

WHAT CHANGES OVERNIGHT?

This picture shows two trench officers in a trench in the Champagne region at their regular morning duty—peeping through a periscope to see if the enemy's position has shifted during the night. Note that the men are wearing their respirators and eye shields as a precaution against a surprise attack by the Germans. The French troops along the German front wear their masks and eye protectors almost constantly as they have learned that the Germans are liable to loose their deadly gases at almost any moment.

Tonight's Games.

Elizabeth at Paterson.
Jersey City at Stamford.

The Stamford basketball team met its first reversal of the season at the local armory Friday evening, the Connecticut aggregation having its colors lowered by the Kingston quintet to the tune of 42 to 23. Complete superiority in shooting during the early stages of the game accounted for the Kingston victory.

Local fans who were in attendance at the game were well repaid for waiting to see the contest, which was started at 8:30 o'clock. The Stamford team are good in arriving on time for a new entry in professional league basketball. Their manager knew that the games in this city are scheduled to start at 8:30 o'clock and there is no reason why he should send a team to this city which enters the court fully one hour and thirty minutes late. The local management was preparing to raise the net in order to let those who dance have the door, when in walked the visiting team. Referee O'Toole gave them one minute to practice before starting the game at 9:30 o'clock. The timekeepers ended the game at 11 o'clock with Kingston on the large end of a 42 to 23 score. Dancing continued until 1 a. m. on account of the lateness in getting the game under way.

Utica Has Large Squad.

Judging from the number of men who are trying for places on the Utica team, that city will be represented by a fast aggregation in the New York State League. One of the most likely looking men on the squad is Al Schuler, who was substitute in the Utica basketball team last season. He is being forward and seems to have the edge on others looking for those positions. Charles Aberding and Mike Roberts, who have played in the league, are also candidates for the team, and Bradley Hall, who was sixth man on the champion Utica five, is quite certain of landing a regular place. Others who have been working on the squad are Joe Retzer, Arthur Scholtes, Don Grant, Jack Cotter, Hank Lauer, Bill Filkins and Flash Molloy. The management is trying to induce Bill Cunningham, a former Troy and Utica star, to return to the game. Two other men are wanted by the Utica club—Cy Chamberlain, center of the Fort Plain team, and White, the clever forward of the Home Independents. The fact that home talent is to be given every chance to make the team has aroused much interest in the game in Utica and a successful season is looked for.

Troy Team Defeated.

The Troy basketball team was defeated in an exhibition game at Mohawk last night by Jack Noll's team 16 to 13. Noll starred for his team and Dave Beaver did the best work for the Trojans.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

Everyone who understands the football rules knows that after a game has started the coach is not permitted to openly direct operations. Likewise, as everyone knows, there are moments during every game when the coach would sacrifice his left thumb to be able to get a lot of advice to his men. Coaches have tried many schemes to get words of advice to their men, but the prize for scheming goes to those who guide the destiny of the Norristown, Pa., high school eleven. During the recent Norristown-Reading game it was noticed that the Norristown players seemed to have a fearful thirst. They were almost constantly summoning the water boy, and the thirstiest of the whole team seemed to be the captain. Likewise it was noticed that whenever the water boy, a midsize dressed in shabby clothing, doled out water to the captain, he always seemed to utter quite a number of words, occasionally accompanying his remarks with a wave of his digits.

This kept up until a chap named "Doc" hunting, a former Penn. Charter Academy man, and now vitally interested in the Reading team, got a close look at the water boy. "Hey, you, boy, c'm're," spoke "Doc."

The water boy didn't and "Doc" pursued him. "Oh, no, it's you, 'Boots,' is it," articulated "Doc" after he had caught up with the fleeing water boy. "I thought it was kinda funny that a water boy would be having so much to say to the players. Say, you, 'Boots,' you get offa this here field in about two minutes or I'll bust your water bucket—and a lotta other things, too, you?"

"Boots" got him—and left. "Yes, you've guessed it. 'Boots,' who wears the last name of Shoffner, was a former quarterback for Norristown. This year he grabbed the job as advisory coach for Norristown, and brought himself of the idea of posing as a water boy so that he could hand out advice to the players when it was needed—during the progress of the game.

Princeton's Greatest Play.

Those who have seen every big game in the east for the past ten years claim that the most wonderful defensive play ever exhibited by any eleven was that shown by Princeton last Saturday in the second period of its game with Harvard. The Crimson crew had rushed the ball to the five yard line and then decided to try to smash it through for a touchdown. All the way down the field the Tiger line had been unable to hold back the Crimson rushes and it seemed like a cinch touchdown for Harvard.

On the first play, King, the Harvard halfback, made a two yard gain through center. King tried to gain through the same place on the next play, but the Princeton line stiffened and King was held without a gain. Then Mahan dropped back as though for a field goal attempt, but "crossed" Princeton by making a dash at the line. He carried the ball to Princeton's one yard line before he was thrown.

Fourth down and one yard to gain for a touchdown. Watson, the Crimson quarterback, snapped his signal, and as the ball was passed to Mahan, the whole Crimson team hurried forward. Nearly a ton of flesh and bone crashed with terrific impact into that weary Tiger line. Mahan, in back of it all, tried to climb the struggling, heaving mass, but was thrown down. Then he tried to dive through the solid mass of bodies. Somewhere in front of him came a huge mass, he tried to get to the bottom of a mass. Suddenly in back of Mahan showed him with the full might of his young, healthy body and Mahan's 150 pounds plunged forward. It looked as if he had been pushed through for a touchdown.

And then the whistle blew. The officials hurried under that mass of humanity for the ball and they found it four inches from the Princeton goal. Harvard had tried to make a five yard gain in four attempts—and Harvard had failed because of the magnificent defensive work exhibited by Princeton in that crucial moment of the game.

STORAGE OF CAR REALLY IMPORTANT

Motorists Who Want Their Car in Shape Next Spring Should Observe Precautions.

Winter is coming! What are you going to do with your car? Every motorist should know that unless he pays particular attention to the way he stores his car or the manner in which he uses it during the winter months, he will incur a large repair expense bill.

Those motorists who do not drive their cars during the winter months should be very careful to store the car properly. The wheels should be jacked up and blocks set under the axles to prevent the car from slipping. When jacked up the tires should be removed, washed carefully and if the tread or side walls are cut they should be repaired before storing. The winter months offer an excellent opportunity to the motorist to get his car in good shape for the coming season.

If the tires are in first class condition they should be wrapped in dark paper, which will prevent light from getting to them and then stored where there is no danger of freezing. Heat, light and cold are all enemies of rubber and the motorist who does not take this precaution with his tire equipment will find that his tires have deteriorated during the winter months.

The car should be gone over carefully and cleaned, grease taken out of the seams, they should be repacked and special care taken to drain the radiator. If this is not done there will be danger of freezing. Leave the pet cocks under the radiator and engine open.

Another thing which you may not remember to do is to put up the top. If it remains down during the entire winter it will set in creases and if it is stretched tight it will keep in good shape.

With the aid of these few suggestions you will be able to keep your car in first class shape through the winter months, so that it will be in good serviceable shape when warm spring days dry up the roads and you are ready to use your automobile again. A stitch in time now will save dollars next spring.
